

Pray for your Husband

---

Holidays often prove to be more challenging than relaxing for most families. Do you desire a fresh start in your relationship with your husband? Having devotion time as a couple can be as difficult in later years as it was easy in the beginning. Why not decide to pray for one another this year? You can start by praying separately. Ask the Lord to lead you and bring you closer to one another and closer in your relationship to Him, so that in time you can sit and pray together for one another.

The list below contains some suggestions; add to it as the Holy Spirit leads you. Print it out and endeavour to pray every day for at least one of these issues for the next 12 months.

- Pray for his work and his relationships with co-workers.
- Pray for his handling of finances.
- Pray for his sexuality and purity.
- Pray for his protection from temptations.
- Pray for protection of his thoughts.
- Pray for all his plans and dreams.
- Pray for his fears and worries.
- Pray for his daily choices and decisions.
- Pray for his protection and health.
- Pray for his difficulties.
- Pray for his integrity and reputation.
- Pray for his priorities and his future.
- Pray for all his relationships, with you, his children and his friends.
- Pray for his role as father.
- Pray that he resolves his past hurt, rejections and disappointments.
- Pray for him to have a positive outlook on life.
- Pray for his emotions and his handling of conflict and hurt.
- Pray for his daily walk with God.
- Pray that he will understand his role as priest and fulfil it.
- Pray for spiritual growth and a holy life.
- Pray for obedience to God.
- Pray that he will be filled with the Holy Spirit and produce the fruits of the Spirit.
- Pray for the operation of the sevenfold Spirit of God in his life according to Isa.11:2.
- Pray for brokenness and humility and that he will repent of any sin.
- Pray for his conversations, the advice that he gives and his influence.
- Pray for his self-image, and that he will understand and experience the father love of God.
- Pray that he will be strong and resist temptation.

- Pray for protection against attacks from Satan, deception, and 3rd parties in the marriage, lust and impurity, as well as (any form of) divorce.
- Pray that he will share his heart with you and include you in his world.
- BLESS your husband and thank God for him!
